A DECADE OF PROGRESS

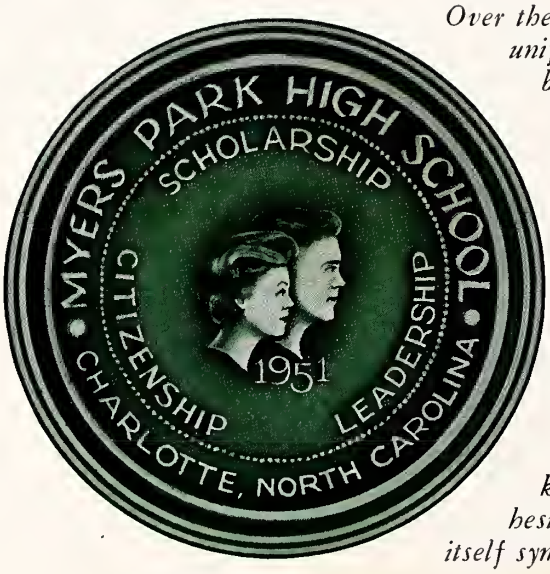
Dear Brother,

How can I begin to write about all the terrific times we've had? Remember how Barney, you, and I met four long years ago out at the river? We had a blast that summer and for all the summers after that. I'm sure we'll have a wonderful this summer this year, too — especially since Bill will be there for August. Let's get together this summer and ski a lot more than we ever have before. Maybe I can even get on your shoulders this year!

Best of luck at Davidson next year, be sure to come up and see me at St. Mary's next year! You've been the best friend-boy I've ever had, and I hope we always remain this close.

Love,
Libby



Over the past decade Myers Park High School has been growing into a unified whole. The growth is by no means complete, nor will it ever be; yet Myers Park has attained a plateau of identity. In observance of the tenth anniversary of the school, the "Mustang" staff wished to contribute an official seal. After much thought and planning and with the guidance and approval of Dr. Horner, the 1961 "Mustang" staff presents to the student body a seal which they hope will become the symbol of Myers Park High School.

Feeling that the seal should be truly representative of Myers Park and the foundations on which the school is built, the staff chose the symbol of the students as the basic element of our educational philosophy. Scholarship, Leadership, Citizenship — these words symbolize the character of Myers Park. They encircle all the activities of each boy and girl seeking knowledge and self-realization and form three bands of the cohesive force that unifies the students. The circular shape of the seal itself symbolizes the unity toward which the school is ever striving.

Dedication

"Work is love made visible" aptly encompasses the many facets of Miss Winnie D. Moore's teaching. Because of her insight, she is able to arouse in others the desire to explore and to discover the unknown for themselves. Many of her afternoons are spent in supervising make-up labs, in guiding students in enrichment work, and in simply counseling. Through her teaching, Miss Moore reveals her own deep love and respect for knowledge.

To keep herself informed about the newest concepts in biology, Miss Moore often does advanced study in summer school. In 1959 she held a National Science Foundation Scholarship for study at Hunter College. Last summer she studied radiation biology at the Duke Marine Station. A member of the first faculty, Miss Moore has been instrumental in winning prestige for the Biology Department and in establishing the Biology II course. The inspiration which she has brought to her students over the years is immeasurable.

In appreciation for her innumerable contributions to Myers Park High School and its student body, we proudly dedicate the 1961 Mustang to Miss Winnie D. Moore.

Interested students watch as Miss Moore dissects premature calf.

FOREWORD

For Myers Park students, the year 1960-1961 was the beginning of an end. A dream, chaos, and confusion — such was the school in 1951. Many pieces of the puzzle had yet to be fitted into place. Equipment and textbooks were available to help complete it, but the human element was needed.

As the first year progressed, the buildings received a "lived-in" appearance; new faces became old faces, Myers Park's spirit materialized. Students and faculty were no longer groping in their new environment; the bonds of friendship had been forged. The administration and the community as a whole helped to shape the destiny of Myers Park.

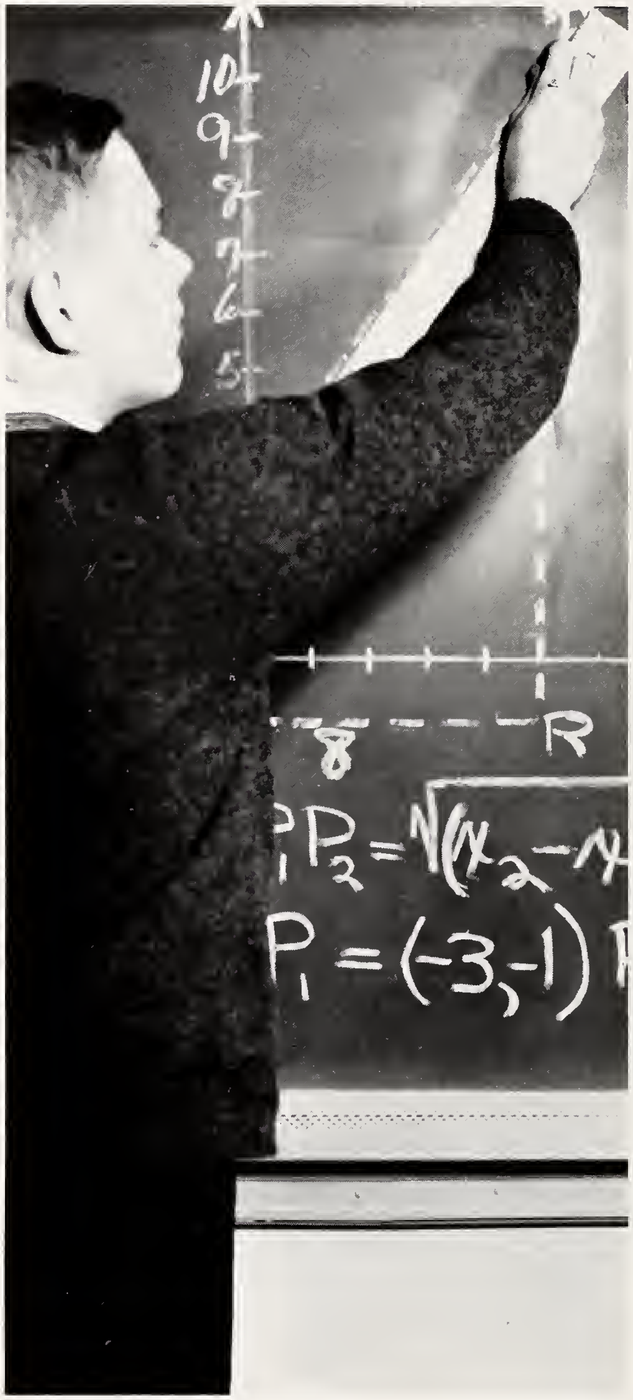
we expanded our curriculum

In the formation of Myers Park, we found the curriculum to be the integral factor which was vital to the advancement of our school.

Expansion of the academic program took place in all fields of study. Emphasis shifted to math and science, but Language Arts still remained as the essential area of learning. With the addition of fourth-year languages, Advanced Placement English, and World Literature, we were afforded the opportunity to widen our horizons. Through social studies — Problems in American Democracy, American history, and world history — we became more aware of our place in society.

The wide range of non-academic subjects contributed to our diversified personalities. Distributive Education offered job experience while we studied.

Through our ingenuity and industry we exercised our intellect in our search for knowledge and self-realization. In our daily studies, objectivity and interpretation were our aims.



Plane coordinate geometry helps develop analytical minds.

Through studying embryology and dissecting embryonic forms, Biology II students penetrate into the mysteries of life.

we watched the growth of our campus

Through expansion and increased enrollment, the gradual metamorphosis of Myers Park as an all-senior high took place before our eyes. Campus additions enabled our school to meet the ever-growing needs in modern education.

Tech building, added in 1955, provides space for elective arts.

then there were the little things we knew as M. P.

Without the little things, Myers Park's picture could not have been completed. Varied emotions were felt by all of us during our moments of diversion. Being with friends became our most cherished activity. Hearing the "Star Spangled Banner" echo through crisp, fall nights sent chills down our spines. Strains of our Alma Mater made us solemn in our moments of glory.

Holiday spirit and exam blues were part of our emotions during the year. The Student Lounge and homeroom period caught us in some of our capers. Slushing through snow, ice, and a sea of mud were part of our daily winter routine. Fellowship which we experienced in club projects benefited us as well as the school. Endless hours of Follies practice filled our time.

Cold, drab winter months were erased by the arrival of spring. Mother's Day and the beach dominated our thoughts. After our fling, we had the interlude before the Junior-Senior, the Senior Banquet, graduation, and summer vacation.

Varied expressions appear on faces as band plays the Alma Mater.

Legs, legs, and more legs appear as students and faculty scramble.

Enthusiasm of GAC is not daunted by a cold, misty morning.

All signs of drowsiness are erased by 8:00 a.m. pep rally.

No morning is too cold to raise American and school flags.

and through these things we were growing with a purpose

Throughout our entire period of observation and growth, we were compelled by some force which made us strive harder to achieve our aims. For the betterment of Myers Park and ourselves, purpose was guiding us on to higher goals.

We had our frivolous moments, our moments of despair; but the underlying factor in all our activities was the desire to make Myers Park a more vital part of our community, to make ourselves more useful members in our ever-changing society.

Even in the midst of companionship and shared interests, a student may sometimes find solitude and contemplation.

ACTIVITIES

Each year we saw the addition of more activities. Which club or organization to join was the quandary of many students, but soon the majority of us found our niche. Service clubs made us feel that we were beneficial; career clubs helped us to make our decisions about future vocations. The thrill of witnessing an Honor Society tapping made us each want to strive to attain the goals of this honorary group. Each organization had a different connotations: Student Council—self-discipline; orchestra, band, choral groups, and Limelighters—self-expression; and "'Spark" and "Mustang"—self-reliance. Through all our activities, we were growing, and the school was progressing.

Choir presents Messiah at traditional yule assembly

Throughout the halls of L. A. singing was heard as the choir and chorus rehearsed during fourth and fifth period. Students heard the result of this practice at the traditional Christmas assembly when graduates of Myers Park returned to join the choir in presenting a portion of Handel's Messiah. Choir and chorus members also combined with the orchestra to present a concert in December at Myers Park Elementary School.

Activities of the choir did not end with school functions, for they also presented a program at the S & W Cafeteria. Members traveled to the District Contest held in Hickory and later to the State Festival in Greensboro, North Carolina, where the group received high ratings for their musical accomplishments. Choir officers, President Deno Elliott, Vice President Gayle George, Secretary Carol Holden, Treasurer Bing Vick, and Mr. Cronstedt made plans for these musical performances. As a climax to the year's activities, the choir performed at the Baccalaureate and commencement services.

Another vocal group, the "Monotones," was formed this year. Outstanding boys from the choir composed this group which practiced after school to perfect its repertoire. One of their first performances was at the Honor Society Tapping in October. This popular group added to the acclaim of Myers Park's music department.

Orchestra plays at sixth annual Christmas Assembly

Practicing during fifth period each day, the orchestra worked to attain perfection of tone. In the weeks before concerts, rehearsals often extended into night sessions. President Caroline Pilcher, Vice President Mac Smith, Secretary-Treasurer Alice McNeill, and Director Mr. Mims planned programs and made all arrangements for the orchestra's performances.

Working together, the orchestra, choir, and chorus presented an impressive performance of Handel's Messiah and other seasonal music at the traditional Christmas assembly. Mr. Mims initiated a new tradition this year by inviting graduate students of Myers Park to return to perform with the orchestra for this annual assembly program.

In October and again in the spring, the orchestra provided music for the National Honor Society tapping assemblies. During December the group appeared in concert at Myers Park Elementary School.

Members named to the All-State Orchestra performed at East Carolina College in February and at the Music Educator's Association meeting in Asheville in April.

Divided into two sections this year, the marching band and the concert band directed by Mr. Mims were on hand to add music to many school activities.

Executing intricate formations and presenting colorful half-time entertainment, the entire band performed at each Myers Park football game. Half-time shows this year included themes such as "A Salute to Hawaii" and "The Roaring Twenties."

Assisting with these performances were the Lettergirls led by Caroline Pilcher, the Majorettes headed by Tinka Lee, and Flagbearers Mariana Kuester and Marya Bell. Drum Majors, Bob Holder and Bill Shackelford, led the marching band through their paces on the field. Millie Mustangs, Frances Sullivan and Fay Walters, appeared at every game dressed in bright green kilts and created extra pep and enthusiasm among the spectators.

Three members of the concert band, Bill Bolen, Mac Smith, and Ken Avent, participated in the All-State Orchestra. In February the concert band performed for the public at Myers Park Elementary School.

Millie Mustangs are a vital part of the school pep groups. Fay Walters and Frances Sullivan, the 1960-1961 "Millies" appear at sports functions to add their own special touch of enthusiasm to the cheering section.

Performing not only on the field but also in the stands, the band adds to the spirit of spectators. Mr. Mims directs members in marking another Myers Park touchdown by playing the victory song, "Give a Cheer for Myers Park High School."

'Spark voices student opinions, records activities

With deadlines forever looming ahead, the 'Spark staff worked feverishly to put out each bi-weekly issue. Reporters labored over news stories and editorials. Last-minute changes were made to get the "scoop" on the latest news events. Subscriptions were sold this year through a newspaper fee which entitled each student to receive copies of the paper.

Keeping the students informed of all the campus news was not the only objective of the 'Spark. It also gave recognition to outstanding students and provided a means for individuals to voice their opinions.

Special editions were printed at Christmas and in May when graduating seniors were honored with special features, including the History of the Class of 1961.

Staff members did not confine their talents to journalistic efforts, however. The 'Spark supported a school project to contribute Christmas cards which they sent to local nursing homes. Sponsoring a contest to elect Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae for the Sadie Hawkins Dance capped the spring activities.

News Editor Milton Van Hoy and Feature Editor Malinda Lobdell check news copy for the next edition of the 'Spark.

1960 Mustang receives

Producing an award-winning annual was the aim of the 1961 Mustang staff as they began work in September. Editor Susan Stephenson with advisors, Mr. Browne and Miss Freeman, held numerous conferences with the major staff members to make plans and decisions.

With originality as the keynote, staff members decided on numerous innovations. Choosing a letterpress book instead of offset was a major decision. An aid for the photographers was the well-organized system devised for planning, scheduling and taking pictures. Section editors worked with new type for copy and captions, and planned layouts with set margins. School activities were covered in two sections, Organizations and Clubs. Another addition was the Student Life section that included Honors and Awards. By placing a booth at the P. T. A. barbecue, Business Manager Jo Ann Elliot was able to sell sponsorships and ads. For the tenth anniversary edition of the Mustang, the staff chose the theme "A Decade of Progress."

Limelighters stage musical "Meet Me in St. Louis"

"It's really for the best, Anna," explains Walter Charnley to Peggy Haddon in Act I of "Meet Me in St. Louis."

"Meet Me in St. Louis," a musical comedy about family life in the "good old days" was the chief production of the Limelighters. Energetic club members worked especially hard to stage this play which was the second musical comedy to be presented by the dramatics club.

In October after the club members had selected the play, open try-outs were held to cast the various roles. President Joey Sherrill, Vice President Happie Peralta, Secretary Sis Smith, and Treasurer Peaches Payne were in charge of auditions. Rehearsals directed by Advisor Miss McInnes and Joey Sherrill lasted long into the night as the cast worked on blocking and cues. For the first two weeks the cast practiced in the drama room, Stage 11, but props and scenery had to be moved to the cafeteria for dress rehearsals.

Choreography was planned by Sis Smith and Jan Dulin, pianist, provided music for the chorus. Yorky Johnston and Harriet Bigham were the costume directors. A special committee was appointed to provide authentic furniture and paint backdrops for the various scenes. Programs were printed with a special "Who's Who" section about the actors.

Opening night found a slightly nervous cast but a delighted audience as the curtain fell on "Meet Me in St. Louis." This musical should be the forerunner of similar productions.

In December a Christmas party was given to initiate new members into the Limelighters. In order to become a member, pledges had to earn a total of 21 points by selling tickets; working on publicity, scenery, or make-up; or by participating in the play. Pledges entertained members by acting out skits, dancing, singing, or telling stories. After the initiation the old and new members enjoyed refreshments, music, and dancing.

Meeting on the first and third Thursdays in each month, members of the drama club discussed the problems of stage production and publicity. After the successful staging of "Meet Me in St. Louis," the group made plans for the spring productions. The first play to be staged was "The Bad Children," which was entered in competition against other North Carolina high school drama groups at the Palmetto Drama Festival in March at Winthrop College. "The Hour Glass" was chosen for the Carolina Playmakers Festival held in Chapel Hill in April. "Never Stop Running," an original play written for the club by Walter Charnley was another one-act produced later in the year.

At the annual club banquet in May, outstanding members received awards for their contributions to the club or for their accomplishments on stage.

Guiding Myers Park through another successful year, the Student Council made important decisions which affected all phases of school life. Aided by President Zan Copeland, Vice President Billy Trotter, Secretary Billy Clark, and Treasurer Walton Rogers, members made suggestions which the ten committees carried out.

Each student was able to serve on one committee. Sophomore orientation and a party for new juniors and seniors were the main projects of the newly formed Welcoming Committee. Citizenship Committee members distributed cards printed with the code of ethics and placed receptacles around the Senior Tree and other smoking areas. In addition to welcoming the exchange students, the A. F. S. Committee sponsored three informative assembly programs concerning foreign life.

Not limiting themselves to legislation, the Student Council sponsored several projects during the year. The Craig Hunt Memorial Fund was the most outstanding of these projects. At Thanksgiving the Council sent canned goods to local orphanages. Christmas projects included a collection for the maintenance staff and Christmas cards which were sent to each faculty member.

Additional legislative action included an amendment to the constitution to establish higher qualifications for the requirements of homeroom representatives. The amendment will go into effect next year.

High standards attributed to National Honor Society

Arnall Broach congratulates Carolyn Spoon at the fall Honor Society induction assembly.

Myers Park's chapter of the National Honor Society retained its position as the most selective and honorary organization. Qualities which serve as a basis for membership are character, scholarship, leadership, and service. The group began another rewarding year by inducting twenty-one new members who ranked in the second five per cent of the senior class. Following the ceremony, the excited inductees and the advisors, Mr. Hunt, Mrs. Long, Mrs. Johnson, and Mrs. Good, were honored at a luncheon in the Student Lounge.

On College Day in November the members served as guides to assist representatives from fifty-five colleges that were participating in the annual senior College Day. At the December meeting Miss Gordon, Bible teacher, gave a talk on preparation for Christmas, which was enjoyed by the members. Late in April the third five per cent of the senior class and the first five per cent of the junior class were tapped in the last induction ceremony of the year. Closing the year, the Honor Society contributed to the coveted Thomas F. Braaten Inter-Club Scholarship, which was awarded at commencement exercises.

As part of the American Red Cross, Myers Park's Junior Red Cross was very active this year in participating in national and community programs. To start the year, the club held its annual enrollment drive to secure volunteers as well as finances for national and local services, relief, and children's funds.

During the year members formed the Eighteen-Year-Old Club by enlisting all seniors who wished to donate their blood. These students received recognition for their generous gift at the close of the year. Early in December the council began filling a chest with various school supplies, personal supplies, and sporting goods, which was sent overseas to promote international good will.

On Valentine's Day members entertained the children at Charlotte Rehabilitation Hospital with stories and refreshments. As a finale of the year, the Red Cross with the aid of Marta Ortiz, exchange student from Argentina, made a correspondence album filled with pictures and explanations of American customs, which was sent to Argentina.

Future secretaries, engineers prepare for careers

Students interested in business or engineering careers formed two very active groups on campus — the Pen Pushers' and the Engineers' Clubs.

The Pen Pushers, assisted by Miss Harrison, evaluated business courses offered in high school by surveying local firms. Members enjoyed qualified speakers from the business world.

The Engineers' Club, with the aid of Mr. Greene, learned about the variety of jobs in engineering. The club also sponsored the annual Science Fair where interested students exhibited projects. Local winners participated in the District and State Fairs. Fulfilling its objective, the club helped members prepare for future careers.

In November they learned about the latest hair styles from Miss Roberts of La Marick Hair Studio, and in December Mrs. Nelson of the Mecklenburg County Home Demonstration Club demonstrated the making of Christmas decorations. Monthly programs interested the future homemakers and taught them many essential household secrets which they will need in managing a family and running a home.

Service to school and community upheld by GAC

Top: Energetic GAC members make tassels. Jan Gaskell, Sally O'Rourke, Shirley Spratt, Katy Law, and Arnall Broach.
Bottom: Ambassadors serve at the teachers' banquet. Blanche Willard, Katy Law, Sarah Herring, and Judy Adams.

Noted for their service to others, the Girl Ambassadors Club and the Key Club retained their positions as the leading campus organizations.

To commence activities, the GAC held a tea for the new girls to enable them to become better acquainted with Myers Park. Again this year members made and sold tassels for the football games. For the big Garinger game the club decorated the Student Center building. They also helped serve at the annual P. T. A. barbecue. Honoring the teachers, Ambassadors held a buffet dinner where the members provided lively entertainment.

Christmas brought much activity as members trimmed the tree outside the library, gave a party for children at Good Samaritan Hospital, and, after caroling, had a spend-the-night party where they exchanged Pollyanna gifts. Once again the Girl Ambassadors raised the prestige of Myers Park through service.

Myers Park's Key Club worked diligently this year to fulfill its responsibility as a major service club. The members began their varied activities by giving devotions over the intercom in September and reserving seats for season-ticket holders at every football game.

For the students' convenience, members, with Key Clubs of other schools in Mecklenburg County, compiled the Key Club directory, which contained the addresses and telephone numbers of the students and teachers. During the Christmas holidays, the club kept the spirit of the Yuletide in mind by gathering food, clothing, and toys for a deserving family.

John White and Ed Genois are proud after months of work on the Key Club directories, which really pile up.

Key Club works toward improvement of school

As their final project of the year, the club members entered their Key Club scrapbook, a record of the activities throughout the year, in the district contest. When the year ended, the Key Club had fulfilled its many responsibilities.

Sophomore Y-teen officers: Todd, Morrison, Spratt, Strawn, Grosboll, Kuester, Pennigar, and Dowd.

Sponsored by the YWCA, the three Y-teen groups at Myers Park accomplished many constructive activities. Beginning their first year at Myers Park, the sophomore girls looked to the tenth grade Y-teens as a source of fellowship and service. Dressing dolls for the Salvation Army with the aid of Mrs. Smith was a main activity. Making Myers Park pillows as a project, the Junior Y-teen girls began their second year of fun and service. Assisted by Mrs. Lancaster, they donated time and work in helping a deserving family.

In their last year at Myers Park, the senior girls with their advisor, Mrs. Hudgins, gave a Christmas party for the Charlotte Day Nursery. Proud of their three years of service, the Senior Y-teens completed their most successful year.

Senior Hi-Y contributes floodlights to Myers Park

Two very active clubs represented the YMCA this year. Twenty-five energetic members of the Senior Hi-Y, advised by Mr. Browne, opened the year by sponsoring a fall "hop" in October. To beautify the school, they installed floodlights on SC and LA, and to boost school spirit, they sponsored a bus to the Salisbury football game.

Also helping and serving the school were the Junior Hi-Y members, assisted by Mr. Jones. In December they added a touch of beauty to the school during the preholiday season by putting a Christmas tree in the Student Lounge. These sixteen boys selected as their main service project for the year the repairing of the LA parking lot.

Language clubs helped students taking foreign languages to enrich their study from the classroom. The Latin Club, counseled by Mrs. Wright, enjoyed a talk by John Thomas, exchange student to Italy. During April members participated in Latin week when the club auctioned new members as slaves, presented skits, and climaxed activities with a Roman banquet.

To begin the year, the Spanish Club, assisted by Miss Akers and Miss Foster, learned about Argentina from Marta Ortiz, exchange student. During the year, the club enjoyed Spanish bingo at one of their meetings. A Mexican pinata party in December highlighted festivities.

Mrs. Cox and Miss Dixon, advisors of the French II and French I Clubs, co-ordinated many of their plans for the year. In the fall Dr. Macy gave a talk on French customs, which interested the two clubs. During the year, a French movie was sponsored by the French II Club for all interested students. To close the year, three French plays were presented by French students under the direction of Mrs. Cox.

Distributive Education provided an opportunity for students to obtain work experience while completing their education. Participating in the District, State, and National Conventions, outstanding members won several awards. To highlight the year's activities, the annual Bosses' Banquet was held.

BASSADORS

Supporters of school spirit, the Monogram and Mustang Clubs maintained their reputation as two of Myers Park's most active groups.

Again this year, the traffic control program by the Monogram Club assured safe driving on campus. Distribution of booster cards by the members lifted school spirit for the football games. In these activities, Coach Allen, their advisor, helped the lettermen learn the importance of good sportsmanship.

Working with the Mustang Club, Mr. Kiser helped the members carry out many projects to promote Mustang spirit. Thrills and skills were exhibited at the student-faculty basketball game, sponsored by the club to obtain glass backboards for the gym. Signs and banners were made and put up in the cafeteria to arouse spirit.

These school-spirited clubs worked hard to produce true Mustang spirit, not only at athletic events, but also at school and community activities.

Mustang Club President Carole Lane and Tommy Marshall put up banner for a basketball game.

Head cheerleader Cynthia Blythe and varsity cheerleaders Gaye Harris, Barbara Martin, Judy Adams, Blanche Willard, Linda Orr, Nancy Rouzer, and June Hopkins practice cheers that bring pep, spirit, and enthusiasm to sports events.

Cheerleaders boost spirit at pep rallies and games

Honor and responsibility were bestowed upon nine energetic girls when they were elected cheerleaders for 1960-1961. Promoting school spirit and supporting the Varsity teams were the most important of their innumerable duties.

With the opening of school the cheerleaders had already completed two successful money making projects. They used the funds to give a pre-season party for the football team. In August they showed their willingness to serve by practicing twice a day and helping the coaches with typing.

Pep rallies presented by the cheerleaders during sixth period had varied themes. At one they imported a "savage jungle medicine man," while at another they introduced the distinguished "Harvard Cheerleaders."

To boost the team's spirit at out-of-town games, the cheerleaders collected money to send a telegram from the student body. A colorful banner made by the cheerleaders during the summer hung in the cafeteria to encourage spirit. On game days the cheerleaders sponsored special announcements on the intercom.

Early in the school year the sophomore class elected nine J. V. cheerleaders. These school-spirited girls quickly perfected their cheering to lead yells at the remaining J. V. football games and gave support throughout the basketball season.

ACADEMICS

Permeating all phases of Myers Park was the academic program. Proving geometry theorems, balancing chemistry equations, and solving physics problems became challenges to our intellect; the adjusting of a microscope, automatic; verb charts, routine; and the memorizing of Shakespeare, Sandburg, and Chaucer, our chief "pastime." The Constitutional Convention made us live history. Term papers and parallel reading taught us not to procrastinate. Non-academic courses provided opportunities to explore additional fields of interest. Through our experiences we learned that study was rewarding. Our achievement was evidenced by our National Merit finalists, College Board scores, and scholarship recipients.

DR. JACK HORNER Principal

As principal of Myers Park, Dr. Jack Horner has done much to improve the curricular of the school. He has led those who have shaped the policies and has been instrumental in obtaining advanced courses in English, history, math, and biology. His resignation effective at the close of the school year enabled him to obtain a higher educational position on Long Island.

Myers Park's counseling program, a distinctive feature of the school, assisted the students in solving their problems and determining their post-graduate plans. Mr. Ray Hunt served not only as assistant principal but also as counselor and psychology teacher. As dean of girls, Miss Frances Gunter could always be found in her office counseling with someone, writing college recommendations, making student schedules, or keeping the school calendar. Mr. Porter Sheppard's role was a dual one. Counselor and teacher of algebra, he also served as athletic director and as coach of the golf team.

New additions to the faculty were Miss Coleman, English; Miss Dixon, French; Mrs. Rotan, girls' physical education; and Mrs. Smith, algebra. The administration worked with the fifty-four faculty members to expand the educational opportunities of the students.

Students and school aided by activities of P. T. A.

Dr. John Otts greets parents and faculty members after the P. T. A. meeting at which he spoke on the modern school's curriculum. Parent-teacher relations and educational programs benefited from the bi-monthly meetings.

In cooperation with the administration, the Parent-Teacher Association worked for the advancement of Myers Park. Their first activity was the annual back-to-school night which was held to allow the parents to follow a simulated schedule and to acquaint them with the faculty.

Co-Presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Gribble, directed the coordination of the P. T. A.-sponsored barbecue. Forty per cent of the $2,700 went to the Athletic Department, while the remainder was put into the P. T. A. general fund.

Some of this profit was used to buy accessories to add a decorative touch to the Student Lounge, and to give a coffee hour for the faculty on Teacher Appreciation Day. Effective September, 1960, money was set aside to be used as a sick-leave fund for the teachers.

To inform the parents and faculty members about the latest trends in education, the P. T. A. invited Dr. John Otts to speak at the January meeting. The P. T. A. also gave recognition to students with scholarship achievement. To climax the year's activities, a reception was given in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Horner.

as part of their course

Heeding the national and state emphasis on math and science training, Myers Park has continually improved its courses in these areas.

With the addition of Biology II and the increased enrollment in the sophomore class, a biology lab was completely equipped in LA. Biology II was not limited to the study of the systemic development of plant and animal life; much emphasis was placed on the study of the human—his anatomy, his physiology, and his evolution. Toward the end of the year many experiments were done in the area of radiation biology. This study enabled the students to understand the effects of radioactive isotopes and to make applications to radiation in general.

Chemistry, too, was an integral part of the Science Department. The study of the composition of substances and the changes they undergo gave students the opportunity to experiment with chemicals and compounds in the lab and to observe the changes for themselves. As part of the course, organic chemistry was included.

Those students interested in the study of different forms of energy and the physical changes in matter took physics. Subjects concerning heat, light and sound, mechanics, and radiation were a few of those studied. Through labs, lectures, and stimulating class discussions, students were able to comprehend the phenomena of the laws governing matter.

Yorky Johnston, Richard Sargent, and Susan Naumoff examine math books purchased with funds from the NDEA.

In the Math Department, the SMSG course was continued for the second year. The forty-four sophomores who made up the classes were presented the newest concepts and techniques in geometry. Those who had taken the course previously were able to combine plane coordinate with solid geometry.

Algebra enabled students to reason more concisely and to understand relationships. Those taking college algebra and trigonometry received excellent preparation for more advanced courses. Senior Math included the study of arithmetic, algebra, plane geometry, and basic trig as a single course.

Problems of Democracy broadens understanding

Miss Phifer acts as moderator of debate by Charles Elrod, Ed Adams, Bill Vinson, and Gerard Davidson.

To fulfill the history requirement for graduation, all students took world and American history. This prerequisite better prepared them for their lives in a democratic community.

The organization of world history presented the gradual ascent of civilization and the problems which faced man as he advanced from the Stone Age.

By doing extensive parallel reading, American history students supplemented the information in their textbooks. The fundamentals on which the United States bases her heritage were better understood.

Thirty-two students proved their interest in social studies by taking Problems in American Democracy. Social, economic, and political problems facing the people of America today were studied. Because of the election year, emphasis was placed on the political structure of the United States.

Taking notes from a television teacher is a new experience for many American history students.

Serving as the hub of the academic program at Myers Park, the library helps many in their class and parallel work.

Enrichment received from Language Arts courses

Vital to any strong academic program is a well-equipped library such as Myers Park possesses. A wide variety of current literature and up-to-date references enables students to supplement their classroom studies.

Through the study of literature, students learned about their European and American heritage. The eleven teachers who taught the forty-four classes in English had the responsibility for seeing that their students perfected their use of the English language by daily drills and by writing themes and term papers.

In its second year, Advanced Placement English continued to stimulate a select group of seniors in writing and literary skills on the college freshman level. Of the fifteen seniors who took the course last year, five received honor ratings on the CEEB examination.

This year the language laboratory was fully installed. By listening to tapes and records and by recording their responses, students were able to perfect their pronunciation and understanding of a foreign language.

Class enrollment in the Foreign Language Department was increased to thirty-two classes to meet the demands of the students. Four years of French and three years of Latin and Spanish were offered. Proficiency in comprehension and composition was stressed. Concentration on literature was presented in the third- and fourth-year classes.

Another elective in the Language Arts Department was World Literature. This survey course revealed the growth of ideas and beliefs and the movements in literature through the ages. Eighty-eight seniors found the course to be invaluable.

Public Speaking, Drama, and Bible helped students to develop self-assurance, poise, and ethics.

From musical expression to driver training, aesthetic as well as practical experience could be obtained through the diversified subjects included in the curriculum.

Preparation for adult life was received in many classes. In clothing and foods, future homemakers learned methods which would make them more efficient. In industrial arts, dexterity with the hands resulted in a finished product of fine craftsmanship. Family Living familiarized students with the adjustments which would be necessary to maintain a normal home atmosphere. Psychology presented basic human behavior patterns. Prospective secretaries and businessmen profited from the office training and typing classes. Distributive Education students received valuable classroom and job experience.

Not all the non-academic courses were practical in nature. Through the art medium, students could find expression, whether in the field of music or creative arts.

In mechanical drawing, Robert Cass and Jim Mascho work on the details of a scale model of SC.

Marking a skirt for hemming is only one of the many techniques of fine sewing learned by girls taking clothing. Leila Lane with the skirt marker demonstrates the method by using Denise DuBose as a model.

for success of school

For a school with a student body of 1,362 to run efficiently, there must be a well-organized staff to perform the innumerable duties that go along with the school operation.

Miss Gower, school secretary-treasurer, has been at Myers Park since 1956. Keeping the school reports, collecting and disbursing all money of the clubs and organizations, and handling correspondence has kept her very busy.

Since approximately eighty-five per cent of the graduating class goes to college, Mrs. Boston has the almost endless task of making transcripts. She is also responsible for the maintaining of permanent records.

The Health Unit which is the cooperative project of the P. T. A. and the Public Health Department is directed by Mrs. McCracken. P. T. A. volunteers staff the unit during the day. Mrs. Mathews, the dietitian, is responsible for the preparation of nourishing meals and for the coordination of her cafeteria staff.

Maintenance of the campus grounds and buildings is under the direction of Mr. Breeden who is also always on hand to assist students in their activities.

Working in the office are girls who act as "girl Fridays." The services which they perform for Miss Gower, Mrs. Boston, and members of the faculty are invaluable.

Mrs. Boston, records secretary, performs her almost endless task of making transcripts for college applications.

Whirlwind activities culminate year at M. P. for seniors

Seniors at Myers Park experienced a year of service, creativeness, sportsmanship, and talent, continued and intensified from previous years. Senior year was unique because of its privileges. Use of the Student Lounge before school and leavng campus for lunch during exams were "strictly for seniors."

Ambition was the incentive for seniors who pored over Alexander Pope, oriental authors, coordinate geometry, French parallel, and physics. Rewards for scholastic attainment were membership for 10% in the National Honor Society, early admission to college, numerous grants and scholarships, and for seventeen the honor of being National Merit finalists.

With many accomplishments and honors behind them, seniors eagerly awaited the Senior Banquet, Baccalaureate, commencement, summer, and a new experience — going to work or to college in September.

Alma Mater
Hail Myers Park High School
We sing to thee, Faithful forever and glorious be You are the pride
Of each loyal heart So may thy glory
never depart
Chorus We've trod our ways on this campus dear, honor and praise will always be near. Myers Park we serve thee in loyalty, Our Alma mater forever to be.

A member of the new Sophomore Advisory Council, made up of last year's Junior Marshals, Judy Adams teaches Alma Mater to sophomore homeroom.

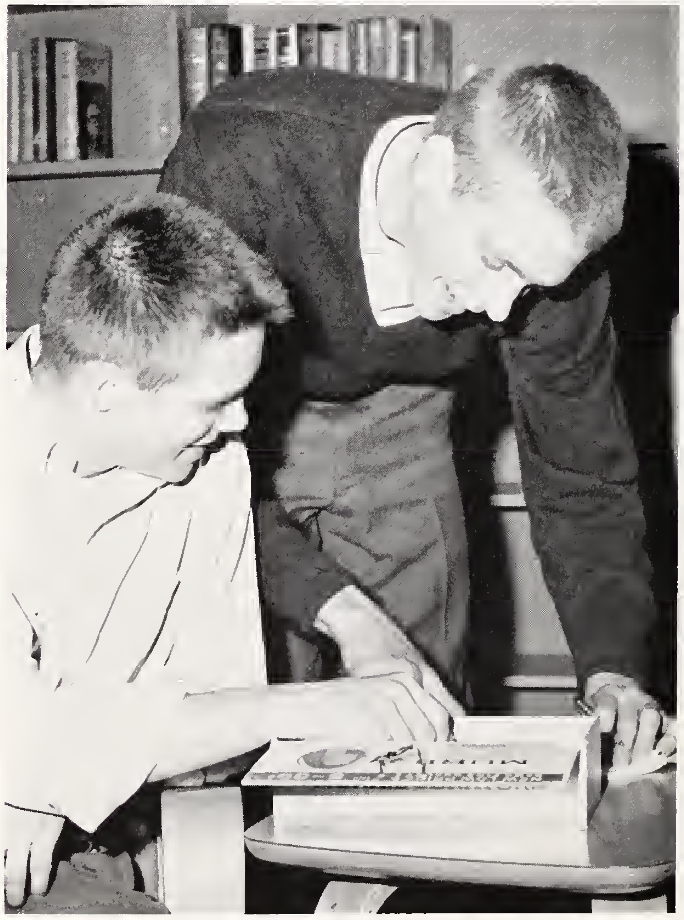
Class rings, the Junior-Senior, and the overwhelming thought — "Next year we'll be seniors!" — made the junior's year at Myers Park one of excitement. But it was a year of hard work, too. After endless hours of work on parallel reading, book reports, and geometry projects, juniors realized the importance of knowledge. During the year outstanding juniors were inducted into the Honor Society and were chosen Junior Marshals. Others were elected to important leadership positions and became members of top clubs. Faced with decisions concerning college, many juniors took the National Merit Examination and College Boards in May. Hard work, awards, and decisions made the junior's year memorable in every respect.

Juniors face work, responsibility in year of unique experiences

Voted Most Outstanding Juniors were Walton Rogers and Billy Clark, both efficient Student Council officers.



An American history parallel assignment brings juniors Kay Latimer and Barry Farr to the library history shelves.

Sophomores show pep, enthusiasm in first year at Myers Park

Confusion, "impossible" schedules, and a maze of classrooms greeted the sophomore class in late August. Through the help of homeroom teachers and the Sophomore Advisory Council, however, the new class became organized quickly. Committees and clubs afforded the sophomores an opportunity to serve their school and community, while sports events and dances helped balance busy academic schedules. Through carefully planned programs of study, the sophomores began meeting their graduation requirements and found expression and enjoyment in special electives. The year passed with unbelievable speed and members of the "new class" became rising juniors, ready to take their places as underclassmen.

ATHLETICS

Growing in team spirit, Myers Park's athletic program has been increased to include nine prep teams. We watched as "green" teams matured into championship teams which copped state and regional titles. Ever-cheering in victory, still proud in defeat — we supported our team. The chant of signals from the quarterback; the panting of thinclads and cindermen; the swish of ball through net; the splash of sleek body against water; the thud of body against mat; the crack of bat against ball; the hushed silence of the putt; and the whack of the racquet were all sounds in our lives. Not all of us were limited just to the sidelines. Through physical education, Girls' Recreation Association, and intramurals, we could all experience the thrill of participating in sports and developing our bodies.

Mustang Gridders compile 5-3-2 record for year

McClure (23), Curry (36), and Richardson (35) protect Rogers (25).

Playing with determination, the 1960 Mustangs completed their season with successive victories over East, Page, and West.

For the season's opener, the Mustangs met North and soundly trounced them by the score of 44-0. Up against arch-rival and 1959 State Champion Garinger, the Mustangs went down to defeat in a hard-fought contest.

A 20-0 victory over South and two ties, with Salisbury and Asheville, came before meeting Conference Champ-to-be Gastonia. The Mustang Gridders were edged by the Greenwave 13-7.

Coach Purcell again used the lonesome-end, a position played to the fullest by Perky Roberson, Bud Palmer, and Jim Mascho. All-City player Billy Mallard held down the short-side end.

The interior linemen were led by Joe Cox, Howard Duvall, Jim Wallace, Ted Greene, and Shrine-Bowl-Choice Jay Rogers. With quarterbacks Jim Rogers, Jeff Beaver, and Charles Elrod passing, much of the Mustang yardage was gained through the air lanes. Captain Bruce McClure, Ronnie Curry, and juniors Shorty Short and Byron Slaughter rounded out the Mustang backfield.

Moving into position to receive pass, lonesome-end Bud Palmer eludes Harding defender.

Mustang Jay Rogers named to Shrine Bowl Team

With any team good kicking is a must. This chore was left to Joe Cox and Jim Wallace. Cox compiled a 37 yard-per-kick average while punting the team out of many crucial situations. Jim Wallace added twelve tallies from extra points and also a booming 41-yard field goal against East to increase his total to fifteen.

Captained by Bruce McClure and coached by Jack Sink, Stuart Allen, and Head Coach Gus Purcell, the Mustangs of 1960 received many awards. Tommy Blair, team manager for two years, was awarded a letter jacket.

In recognition of his outstanding work in prep football, Mustang Coach Purcell was selected as Head Coach of the 1960 N. C. Shrine Bowl Team.

Bruce McClure (23) turns the end following blockers Joe Cox (45) and Ronnie Curry (36). The football team depended heavily on blocking strategy to clear holes for their runs and to assure touchdowns.

J. V. Horses capture City and County Championship

Racing to a 6-1 record the Myers Park junior varsity football team finished one of its most successful seasons. During their regular season they won the City and County Championships and fell only to powerful Gastonia. Coached by Stuart Allen and quaterbacked by Bud Phillips, the young Mustangs scored a total of 143 points as compared to a total of 69 points scored by their opponents.

Mustang Harriers place fourth in State Tournament

Again in 1960 the Myers Park cross country team was one of the outstanding groups in the state. Coach Stuart Allen, coaching for his third year, led the Harriers to a fourth place in the North Carolina High School Cross Country Championship Meet and to a position of third in the western division.

Mustang Grapplers show determination, spirit

Returning lettermen and a crop of talented sophomores built Myers Park's 1961 wrestling team. The Grapplers were led by veterans Bill Hollifield, Richard Sargent, Doug Maddock, Gus Anastes, Deno Elliott, and Ed Genois.

Myers Park was well represented in every weight class from Mike White in the 103-pound division to Bobby Boyd in the heavy weight class.

In traveling around the state to meet Mooresville, Kannapolis, and Albemarle, the matmen have always been able to hold their own and this year was no exception. At home, the Mustangs played host to South, Salisbury, and Asheboro.

Interest in wrestling has changed this "minor sport" into a major one at Myers Park. Part of this increased popularity must go to Coach Stuart Allen, who guided the Grapplers for the third year. The matmen fought through their season displaying determination and the will to win, thus closing another successful season for this winter sport. In post season action, the team participated in the state meet held early in March.

To remember this year's varsity basketball team is to remember a team whose strength was in its speed. Hustle was the by-word of the 1960-61 courtmen; their games were filled with fastbreaks and close guarding. In a clutch situation, when a rebound was needed, Cass, Graham, or Sullivan were on hand to pull it down.

As the season began, successive losses to Wilmington and Salisbury seemed to indicate that a lack of height would be an obstacle for the Mustangs. However, as the season progressed, it became apparent that this deficiency could be overcome by strategic use of speed which was utilized in a fast-paced running game.

Strength in the offensive attack came from the experienced, skillful play of the backcourt men Buddy DuBose and Wayne Ayers. Fast moving forwards Billy Clark and Robert Cass and center Larry Graham filled out the starting five. Jack Sullivan, Bobby Cato, and David Pfohl proved to be capable replacements and often played regularly.

If substitutes were needed, there was strength in depth on the bench. Ray Davis, Jon Logue, Steve Buck, and Donnie Kaleel were always ready to replace a starter when needed.

On the defensive end of the Mustang court, Captain Wayne Ayers goes up for jump ball. While attempting to get the tap, Graham, Cass, and Clark guard Gastonia's players from scoring an easy layup.

in conference contests

Two defeats in the opening games of the season caused a slow start for the Mustangs; but they experienced a lively comeback with two consecutive wins over North Mecklenburg and Salisbury. Myers Park lost twice to the East Eagles.

Against Gastonia the Mustangs were hampered by their opponents' height. The Greenwaves' starting lineup averaged six feet three inches. In a nip-and-tuck contest that saw each team take the lead many times, the Greenwaves were able to win only by tapping in a rebound in the final two seconds of the game.

South Mecklenburg, fast becoming one of Myers Park's closest rivals, was defeated on the home court. In a return game at South, the Sabres meted out a defeat to the Mustangs.

Garinger clashed with the Mustangs once on each team's home court, and Myers Park defeated the cross-town rivals each time. In two very close games against Harding, the Horses won by four points both times.

After winning the conference, MP advanced to the State Finals, defeating Reynolds and Gastonia but bowing to Wilmington for the state title.

Filling out the strong varsity bench are Jon Logue, Steve Buck, Ray Davis, and Jack Sullivan.

Victorious in all of their games with the exception of a two-point loss to Harding, the Jayvee basketball team was the best in the conference. The loss to the Harding Jayvees was revenged when the Junior Mustangs defeated them by the score of 59-41 later in the season.

The winning Jayvees were led by Pete Ayers, who compiled a 17 point-per-game average. With Jeff Beaver and George Elliott in control of the backboards and with adept shooters Stuart McKaig and Andy Hensley, victories were very often one-sided.

Mustang Seahorses rank high in state for third year

In this diving event, Mike McLaughlin shows good form as he is in "tight position" in his flip.

Depth and experience sum up the strength of the 1961 Mermen. The losses incurred by graduation did not keep the swimming team from being one of the foremost prep teams in the Southeast.

Captained by Paul Barefoot and Jim Grey, the swimmers easily won the North Carolina State Championship. The Seahorses were victorious at the Eastern Carolina Invitational, but because of a snow storm which kept them in Charlotte, they were unable to compete in the Emory Invitational meet and thus defend the championship which they had held there for two years. The Seahorses placed sixth in the Southeastern Scholastic Invitational held in Chapel Hill in mid-February.

Outstanding performers for the Mermen were Thad Adams, Paul Barefoot, John Alexander, Dan Caldwell, and Jim Grey. Both the medley relay and freestyle relay teams compiled excellent records during the season.

Led by Drew Taylor and Sonny Charnley, Myers Park divers outclassed their competition by placing first, second, fourth, and fifth, at the Eastern Carolina Invitational. Through the fine efforts of Coach Purcell and the team members, Myers Park has again established itself as the leading high school swimming team in this part of the country.

State G. R. A. Playday

As in years past, the G. R. A. fulfilled its purpose by promoting wholesome and healthful activities, stimulating an interest in athletics and recreation, and creating a spirit of good sportsmanship.

President Pam Guthrie, the other officers, and the Council, under the advice of Miss Jones, sought to strengthen and expand the activities of the club. They revised some of the rules for member participation and improved the meeting schedules of the various clubs.

Showing great enthusiasm, the 493 girls began the school year by earning a $90.00 commission from the sale of barbecue tickets. This money was used to purchase much-needed volleyball equipment which was beneficial to all members.

Volleyball, golf, basketball, bowling, tennis, swimming, and softball clubs were organized; and all who participated found them worthwhile and fun. A playday in Greensboro highlighted the spring activities.

Whether participating in volleyball or practicing layup shots, boys find an outlet for their energy. Myers Park's physical education program is designed to promote physical fitness and to provide wholesome recreation.

Variety for students offered in physical education

In addition to team sports, girls also learn modern and tap dance routines in their gym classes.

Variety in the curriculum and a chance for vital exercise are provided by the physical education program. Girls' classes are taught by Mrs. Rotan and Miss Jones; boys' classes, by Coaches Powell and Purcell. The program has been expanded to include recreational sports and first aid instruction.

Forced inside by winter weather, the sixth period boys' physical education class participates in various indoor sports. Pictured here is volleyball.

"Decade of Progress" evident in athletic program

One of the best examples of Myers Park's progress is evident in the program of athletics. Each of the nine varsity teams has added to the record, and today the Mustangs stand as formidable contenders for championships.

After an undefeated season in 1958, the football team went to the state finals, and Ray Farris was named All-American. The Mustangs have placed seven players in the Shrine Bowl.

The cross country team copped the State Championship, 1955-1960. Tom Stockton and Eddie West held individual championships for two years. In 1955 the basketball team won the GCAA Championship and in 1956 entered the State AA Conference, placing second.

The tennis team snared the state title in 1960. The track team has held the State Championship since 1957, while the golf team holds four state championship titles.

Myers Park's swimming team won the State Championship, the Eastern Carolina Invitational, and the Southern Championship, 1959-1960. Bill McGinty and Lou Sullivan were named All-American.

The wrestling team has always held a strong winning record and was runner-up for the State Championship in 1960. The baseball team placed second in the State Championship finals in 1958 and third in the Western 4-A in 1960.

STUDENT LIFE

As Myers Park grew, so grew the students in their companionship and unity. Student life encompassed all that we did. Even in our studying, class periods, secret balloting, and moments of solitude, we felt a bond with our fellow classmates. The suspense in awaiting the results of voting, the light-heartedness and anxiety of a sports event, the excitement and color of a dance, and the jubilation and sadness at the close of the school year were all emotions felt by us.

Seniors win distinction, honor in annual awards

Seniors excelling in scholarship, leadership, and service to their school, received coveted awards during the year. Elected by fellow classmates, these students represented Myers Park on numerous occasions.

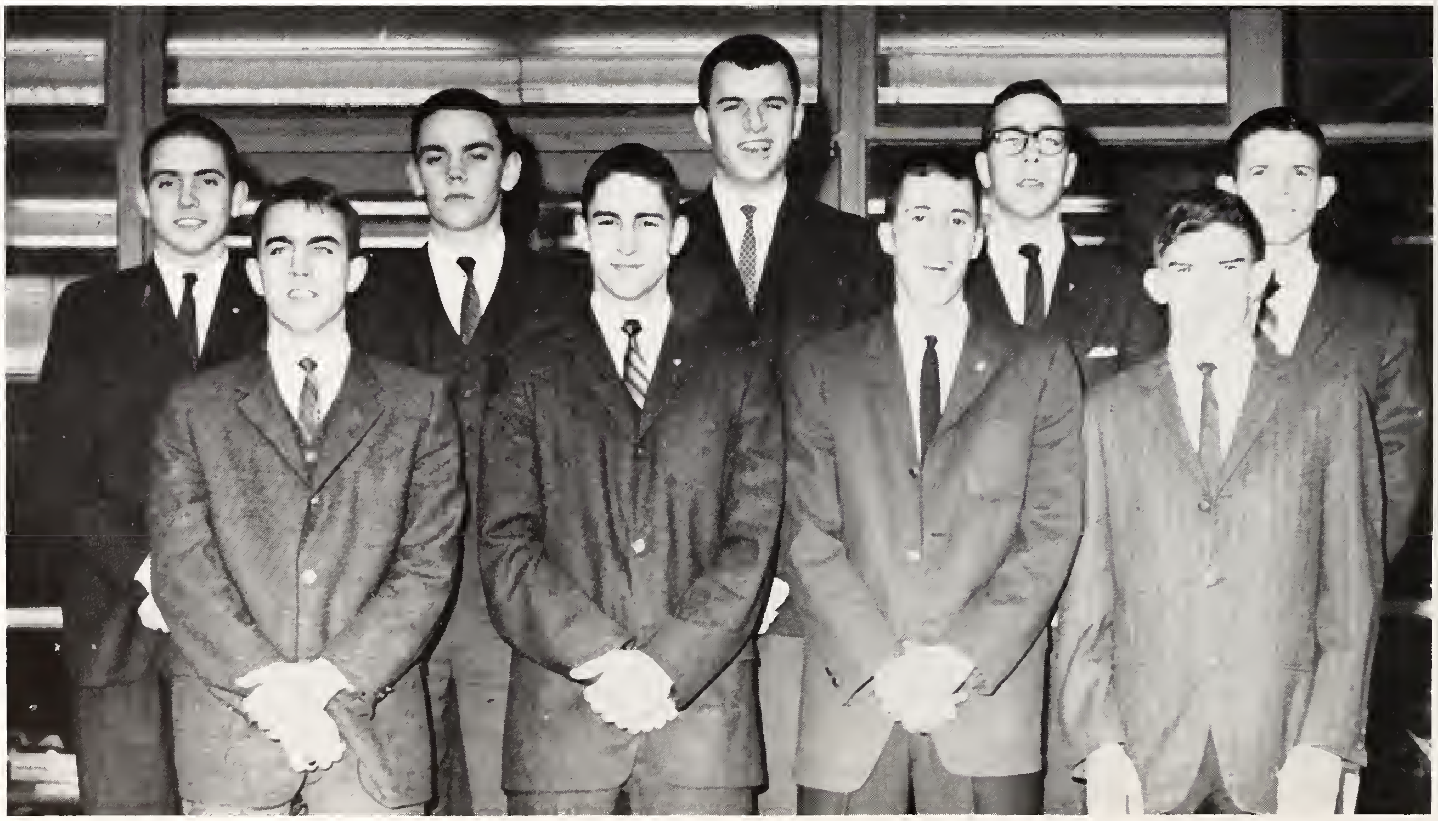
Linda Orr was the winner of the D. A. R. Award which is presented on the basis of dependability, character, and patriotism. Blanche Willard was named to represent Myers Park at Winthrop College during a weekend to honor all high school girls who had been elected to the position of Miss Hi-Miss.

During his junior year, David Pfohl was presented the Harvard Book Award, given in recognition of excellent grades, fine character, and outstanding leadership and service. Boys who were chosen to represent Myers Park as Junior Rotarians were Trey Snepp, Curty White, Zan Copeland, John White, Buddy DuBose, Billy Trotter, Paul Barefoot, David Pfohl, and Howard Duvall.

Typifying the Myers Park student were Mr. and Miss Myers Park, Cynthia Blythe and Buddy DuBose.

Linda Orr, active campus personality, is the 1961 recipient of the D. A. R. Citizenship Award.

Boys who represented Myers Park as Junior Rotarians were: First row: Howard Duvall, David Pfohl, John White, Billy Trotter. Second row: Paul Barefoot, Trey Snepp, Zan Copeland, Curty White, and Buddy DuBose.



Students elected Buddy DuBose and Cynthia Blythe Mr. and Miss Myers Park. The two students chosen each year for this honor are representative of these qualities — character, leadership, dependability, and devotion to their school.

Blanche Willard, M. P.'s busy Miss Hi-Miss, faces a typical quandary — "There's a game today and a GAC meeting, too!"

Studying paid off for David Pfohl, winner of the Harvard Book Award.

Service, leadership, dependability, and character were the criteria used in selecting the recipients of the first Horner Student Awards. After candidates were nominated by the senior class, fifteen seniors were selected through careful screening and thoughtful voting by the Student Council Executive Committee, made up of three students and three faculty and administrative members, and the Mustang major staff. The number of students to receive this award will vary yearly, but the qualifications will remain the same.

Named in honor of Dr. Jack Horner for his leadership in the development of Myers Park High School, these awards give recognition to seniors making the most outstanding contributions to the school.

Homecoming, Christmas dances head social events

This year's center of social activities was the Homecoming and Christmas dances and a spring hop. Weeks of planning for the theme and the decorations heightened the expectancy before each dance. The transformation of the cafeteria made the happy occasions memorable.

Crisp fall nights and football — bubbling school spirit is seen in Cynthia Blythe and Zan Copeland.

The overview: a year of fun and hard work

Ball games, dances, studies — this was Myers Park. The student puzzling over a difficult test question at 2:00 p. m. was the same one found later listening to the blare of the juke box in the Student Lounge. The girl in blue jeans and Dad's old shirt at 5:00 p.m. was the one who a few hours later was walking into the softly lighted cafeteria. For all students these and many other activities filled each day.

Brisk, cool nights brought football and the excitement which comes with the season. This time, when old and new Myers Parkers were becoming acquainted, unified the school. Whether at a football or basketball game, each student felt the elation of victory and the disappointment of defeat.

There were dances and other events which would not be forgotten, but the most important subject of school life was academic achievement.

Dances — the highpoint of social activities at Myers Park — bring time for fun and an opportunity to forget books and the hectic pace of academic life. Gloria Owen and Harry McArver pause for a moment before joining classmates.

the opponent scores . . .

Mustangs move down the court . . .

and Myers Park makes a basket.

Graduation — the culmination of twelve years' work found four hundred and twenty-nine seniors leaving high school. There was perhaps nostalgia for Myers Park and carefree days, but also, there was anticipation for the future.

Academic progress is every senior's aim. Caroline Pilcher finds a quiet session with homework a rewarding experience.

June — and now the end. A senior, cap and gown in readiness, takes one last moment to reminisce about days at Myers Park.

[illegible],

Like you say this is getting pretty tiresome saying the same old thing in every annual . . . I hope you forget how to ski this summer, I hope you lose your [illegible] and last but not least, I hope you wreck Barney's boat. Seriously, have alot of fun this summer & make "A's" in college. It's been great knowing you.

Your M.G. [illegible],
Hope Lewis

Acknowledgments

Though every memory of Myers Park for the year 1960-1961 cannot be captured in these 168 pages, we of the 1961 Mustang staff have tried to show every aspect of the school year. However, without the cooperation and financial assistance of many people, the Mustang could not have become a reality. We feel that we are indeed fortunate in having such interested advertisers and sponsors, and we know that the students of Myers Park will enjoy patronizing our advertisers.

We are also indebted to the following for their contributions:

Mr. Frank Fleming, Consultant, Washburn Printing Company;
Mr. Price Coursey, Consultant, Charlotte Engraving Company;
Mr. Earl Powell, Plant Manager, Washburn Printing Company;
Mr. Charles Smith, Art Consultant, Charlotte Engraving Company;
Mr. George Barbers, Kingskraft Cover Company, Kingsport, Tennessee;
Mrs. Virginia Christenbury, Mrs. Jean Howarth, Mrs. Genevieve Stewart, Beverly Studios, senior portraits;
Mr. Phil Aull, Phil Aull Studio, beauty portraits;
Dr. Jack Horner and the Faculty of Myers Park;
The 1961 Staff and Homeroom Representatives;
Miss Gordon Freeman;
Mr. Leslie Browne;
Mr. James Stewart, beauty judge;

Dear Joe, I don't know how I'm ever going to live through next year without your smiling face here to guide me! You've really been a big help to me this year protecting me from Johnnie Harvey. I'll never forget you for that.
Seriously, you are a great person with a wonderful nutty personality. Best of everything in college
next year. Love
Luck

"Reserved for Betty"

5/19/61

Dear Joe,

This wonderful year is now coming to a close only to open the doors to a wonderful future for you schoolwise (and me, I hope). Remember the first time we met in the hall and then you called and asked me for a date, we went to the movies (rain + all), the time you took me to the concert of singers at Devens and I wore heels and was almost taller Sr.? than you, the time we went to the Barb-O-Que and then to the game afterwards and we won you were so excited and wouldn't sit down when I did, the time we went and "parked" in front of the junior high school and had a talk which lasted half the evening, the times you would take me home to see your mother and we would leave ~~you~~ you out of the conversation throughly enjoying ourselves, the time I was accepted at Lees McRae and kept dancing around, the time you [illegible] to get a new pair of shoes and after dragging you all over town I came home with four pairs, then you had to take me back to town to change them, then I finally bought a pair of "Weejuns" and some "flats", you bought a new suit (which was quite good looking). Well, graduation is right around the corner (hope we will be there) and since you got in that great college Davidson (I am proud of you) I know you will really be riding high. Remember you promised to keep in touch with me.

Joe, anytime you are lonely or need a friend, please remember that I am alway near anytime, anywhere and ~~don't~~ hesitate to call

I will always remember you - Love Betty Richardson

when you are at Davidson look up Hugh Bell, he really has alot on the ball, Buddy Kemp and Dick Wray.

Lots of Love + Luck

Always

Betty
